Apprenticeships and Careers

Myth or Reality?

"Apprenticeships are only for young people."

Apprenticeships are open to those of all ages. While some apprenticeships may target recent school leavers, there are programs available for adults who wish to switch careers or develop new skills. Lifelong learning and professional development are encouraged, regardless of age.

Did you know?

This Friday is World Refill Day! A fantastic opportunity for anyone interested in a career in sustainability to find out how measures can be implemented to reduce waste and in particular plastic pollution. Read more on their website here:

APPRENTICESHIP OF THE WEEK

DENTAL NURSE

- During the Level 3 Dental Nurse apprenticeship, aspiring dental nurses work under supervision of experienced dental professionals, such as dentists or hygienists. They provide chair-side assistance during various procedures, ensuring the comfort and safety of patients.
- The apprenticeship typically lasts around 18 to 24 months, during which apprentices undertake a range of activities and assessments to demonstrate their competence.
- Entry requirements for this apprenticeship are likely to include GCSEs or other relevant qualifications, and the candidate must have completed Level 2 Functional Skills English and Maths before they enter their End Point Assessment (EPA).
- Upon successful completion of the Level 3 Dental Nurse apprenticeship, individuals can become qualified dental nurses and may register with the General Dental Council. They can pursue a career in various dental settings and may choose to specialize in areas such as orthodontics, oral surgery, or dental hygiene.

WE ARE RECRUITING!

Apprentice Dental Nurse

An exciting opportunity has arisen in our Oral and Maxillofacial team, who are looking to recruit an individual and support them to complete their Level 3 Dental Nurse apprenticeship.

CAREER OF THE WEEK

IMMUNISATION

WE ARE RECRUITING!

Apprentice Administrator - Immunisation

An exciting opportunity has arisen in our Immunisation team, who are looking to recruit an individual and support them to complete their Level 3 Business Administrator apprenticeship.

- Getting into a career in immunisation typically requires a combination of education, training, and experience. Here are the general steps one can take to pursue a career in immunisation:
- Education: Obtain a relevant degree or certification. A background in nursing, medicine, public health, or a related field is often preferred. Consider pursuing an undergraduate degree in nursing, medicine, or public health to lay a solid foundation for a career in immunisation.
- Licensing and Certification: Acquire the necessary licenses and certifications. As well as the typical professional registration for medicine you may need to obtain specialized certifications in immunization practices or vaccine administration.
- Gain Clinical Experience: Gain practical experience working in healthcare settings. It's beneficial to gain experience in a clinical setting. This hands-on experience allows you to develop skills in patient care, vaccine administration, and immunisation program management.
- Stay Updated on Immunisation Guidelines: Keep up-to-date with immunisation guidelines, best practices, and emerging research in the field. Attend courses, conferences and workshops focused on immunisation to stay informed about the latest developments and advancements.

- FACT: T Levels are a new type of qualification in England that were introduced in September 2020. They are designed to offer a technical alternative to A Levels, focusing on practical skills and industry knowledge.
